Tech sector spends nearly €100m a year lobbying the EU

Study on technology firms' lobbying efforts in the European Union shows the sector spends more than any other in trying to influence policies and legislation

By Sebastian Klovig Skelton , Senior reporter

Published: 01 Sep 2021 12:45

Big tech now spends more than €97m annually lobbying the European Union (EU), making it the biggest lobby sector in Europe ahead of pharmaceuticals, fossil fuels and finance, according to a report on how technology companies are trying to influence the bloc.

In the 48-page report – titled The Lobby network: Big Tech's web of influence in the EU – Corporate Europe Observatory and LobbyControl profile the lobbying

EuGH spricht Machtwort zu Netzneutralität

Die Telekom und Vodafone verstoßen mit ihren Zero-Rating-Produkten gegen die EU-Verordnung zur Netzneutralität, hat heute der Europäische Gerichtshof entschieden. Die Netzbetreiber müssen ihre Angebote nun drastisch umbauen – oder die Diskriminierung gleich ganz beenden.

THE PEOPLE'S DECLARATION

We, the people of Europe, demand technology that serves us, instead of putting us, our communities and our democracies at risk.

We call for an end to Big Tech's destructive business model which has turned our own data into weapons against us.

We demand a better internet, where citizens are able to access vital infrastructure and information, and thrive off connection and participation, without being reduced to products in an insidious surveillance economy.

We call for a world in which no small group of billionaires can tweak an algorithm and change the fate of billions without constraints or fear of consequence.

The internet doesn't have to be this way.
